JASoCal is a volunteer driven, not-for-profit organization dedicated to empowering young people through financial literacy, work readiness and entrepreneurship.

JASoCal's experiential, hands-on programs develop communities by teaching the economic relevance of staying in school. All JASoCal programs correlate to Core Content Standards for California.

This year more than 4,000 classroom volunteers will teach nearly 100,000 students across ten Southern California counties. JASoCal inspires kids to achieve in school and, ultimately, in the business of life. For more information, please visit www.jasocal.org
